Divine FUH received a PhD from the Institute of Social Anthropology, University of Basel in 2009. He was also affiliated to the Centre for African Studies in Basel (CASB). His PhD dissertation – Competing for Attention: Youth Masculinities and Prestige in Bamenda, Cameroon – addresses the question of how youth in an African City (Bamenda) cope with the many challenges that the weakness of the state, the economy and the many aspects of the ongoing processes of globalization and shifts in gender identities provoke. While in Basel he has also served as lecturer in social anthropology and, coordinator for the Institute of Social Anthropology's Joint Research Group on Visual Culture and Political Transformations. FUH is also a graduate of the Swiss Postgraduate Programme in Ethnology/Anthropology. He received a Bachelor's degree in Journalism, Mass Communication and Political Science from the University of Buea, Cameroon and, holds an MA in Development Studies from the University of Botswana, where he was also a teaching assistant in anthropology and sociology. FUH has conducted research on sexuality, AIDS, gender, youth, conservation and resettlement, xenophobia, migration, popular culture, media use and masculinities in Botswana, Cameroon and Switzerland. He has served as a consultant for several international organizations and, has been editorial assistant for the Pula: Botswana Journal of African Studies; the Botswana Journal of Economics (BOJE); and the Barclays Botswana Economic Review (BBER). From 2006-2009, FUH was also Managing Editor for Langaa Research and Publishing CIG, a growing research, training and publishing initiative in Africa. In early 2009, FUH was Visiting Research Fellow at the Centre for Modern Oriental Studies in Berlin (ZMO) where he worked on the subject of mobility, migration and transforming masculinities amongst African migrants in Europe. FUH is also currently a consultant for the Swiss AIDS Federation (AHS).
