ASC is part of LeidenGlobal:
www.leidenglobal.org

ASC Website:
www.ascleiden.nl

ASC Country Portal:
countryportal.ascleiden.nl

ASC Blogs:
www.ascleiden.nl/content/asc-blogs

AfricaBib (bibliographic databases):
www.africabib.org

Connecting-Africa (African research information):
www.connecting-africa.net

ASC on Facebook:
www.facebook.com/ASCLeiden

ASC on Twitter:
www.twitter.com/ASCLeiden

Join the ASC Community

Top row from left to right: Inge Brinkman, Jessica Achberger, Andre van Dokkum, Dick Foeken, Jumoke Oduwole, Lotte Pelckmans, Helen Hintjens. Bottom row from left to right: Sebastiaan Soeters, Henrietta Nyamnjoh, Issouf Binate, Iorver Ikeseh, Wouter van Beek, Doreen Kobusingye, Samuel Nnewu and Samson Bezabeh (below).
The ASC Community
The ASC has recently set up the ASC Community, which is a network of specialists from academia, the media, NGOs, business and/or policy making with a focus on Africa, artists and others interested in Africa. Membership is free. There are four different types of members depending on a person’s involvement with Africa.

Membership categories
Fellow: you have a PhD, are a researcher at a university or some other knowledge institute and have published at least three refereed publications on Africa in the last five years. N.B. The ASC’s Executive Board reviews all requests from researchers who wish to be Fellows of the ASC Community.
Affiliate: you are working on a PhD on a topic related to African Studies or you are/will be a Research Masters student and are affiliated to a Dutch academic institution.
Artist: you are a writer, visual artist, photographer, film or documentary maker, musician or chef and your work focuses primarily on Africa.
Associate: you do not fit into any of the other categories but would like to be a recognized member of the ASC Community. Your country of residence is not relevant for any of the above-mentioned membership categories but you must have a link with an institute in the Netherlands.

What does the ASC expect from you?
We want members to participate actively in the Community. This could be by collaborating in a research project, attending our events, informing us about your new publications (our library always likes to have a copy!) or helping to organize events. Your assistance might also be requested in attempts to access research funding.

What does the ASC offer you in return?
You will become part of a dynamic network. You will be on the ASC’s website with your own profile page, which we will ask you to update regularly. You will also receive our monthly electronic newsletter. You will receive 50% off all our publications and we can assist you if you have specific requests.

If you would like to become an ASC Community member, you can fill in the registration form on the ASC website. If you live in Africa and are interested in acting as a (volunteer) country coordinator in your country of residence, please indicate this on your registration form.

E: ASCcommunity@ascleiden.nl
W: www.ascleiden.nl/content/asc-community